I be use of your columns to correct this error. The Seuthers Military Academy is located in Fredenia, Chambers county, Alabama, about ten miles from West Point; the simation is very kenity, with abandance of water of excellent quality. The academy has been in successful operation about three years, under the superintendence and control of its very efficient proprietor. Maj. Gibson & Hill. Desirous of increasing the usefulnessed his institution by securing the services of eminent professors in the various branches of acione, of adding to his philosephical apparators, of procuring the best scientific instruments, and reducing the price of tuition. Maj. Hill applies to the Legislature for a charter, to establish a lottery, from which to derive means to carry out his plans and make his academy second only to West Foint or the Folytechnic institute above, and the second of the proposed plan met with general favor. The lettery is set up on the Harvan, a plan of single numbers, in which the prices are all drawn at each drawing and paid without discount, and sine hecause it was believed to be the most savily understoed as well as the most honorable plan. The claims of this lottery on the patronage of the people of Alabama and the South, present themselves in strong contrasts to those of the Havan, for a man who invests his mosey in the Southera Military Academy lottery, if he draws aching, has the satisfaction of knowing that he has contributed his quota to the establishment of an institution destined to de honor to the State, and he pointed at with pride by avery Southera heart—while an investment in the Havana he city was designed to help in the price by avery popurative to heap indignation of this government.
